

Dear FCC:

Please reject the NAB's petition 04-160. People pay a fee to hear XM radio and they should not have any part of it taken away. AM/FM radio stations are angry at the threat of loss of advertising money due to the success of XM radio (which remains perfectly commercial-free). If people switch to XM, their audiences diminish and advertisers find less value in spending their dollars on the radio medium.

XM subscribers choose XM and gladly pay a fee for many reasons: choice of music genres, comedy and talk stations, commercial-free broadcasting and instant traffic and weather. Please don't let the NAB try to squash their competition. Cable and satellite TV have not prevented advertisers from spending millions of dollars on network TV. There's room out here for everybody!

Thanks!
